Remote Learning: Schoology

Schoology is the primary online classroom platform Uplift will use to connect students and teachers.

Teachers will use Schoology to:

- House links and schedules for scholars to engage in live instruction
- Post daily student assignments and course materials
- Give feedback to scholars on their work which will be submitted through Schoology
- Create interactive and robust discussions around course content
- Administer assessments

Parents will have everything in one location making virtual learning easier to navigate!

Daily Attendance in Virtual Learning

- Scholars MUST log in Daily to their Schoology account in order to be counted present for the day
- Attendance starts the first day of school, August 10th

Schoology Access Email

Dear Uplift Family,

We are pleased to share that Uplift will now being using Schoology through ClassLink, a single sign-on platform that will allow scholars to use one username and password to access everything they need, all in one place. From this single login, scholars will find all their educational technology websites and Schoology, our learning management system for remote learning and instruction. Your scholar, Aniya Hussey, will need to log in to Schoology every day starting on August 10th to be counted for attendance (more details in the attached communication).

Here is how to help your scholars get started:

1. Go to this website: https://my.classlink.com/uplift

2. Enter scholar's unique username and password to Sign In: [redacted]

3. Click on the Schoology SSO icon

For additional information about Classlink (your scholar's path to access Schoology), please view the attached Remote Learning Quick Guide & Instructions Parent Letter and Classlink Quick Guide. For additional information about Schoology, visit Getting Started on Schoology for Students.

Instructions for parent access to Schoology will be sent out at the end of next week.

Guidance for Tech Support

- During the week of 8/3, parents will receive an email from Uplift that contains a list of the ED Tech tools that are available for your scholar. This is a great place to look for assistance on accessing educational technology tools. If you have additional questions about any of the software programs, the best place to start is through your scholar's teacher.

- If you need assistance with the Chromebook or need to report damage to the device, please submit an email to edtech@upliftеducation.org . Please provide specific details about the issue. Also, please include your scholar's name, school and grade level, and someone will reach out to discuss next steps to repair.

- Data-driven
- Schools will determine most appropriate time for virtual lessons

Special Education

- The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act of 2004 (IDEA 2004) established laws to ensure scholars with disabilities have access to a free appropriate public education with the assistance of services that meet their individual needs. This applies in all settings and learning platforms, including in-person, virtual or hybrid models of learning.
- The provision of special education and related services may occur face-to-face or using a variety of remote methods including video conferences, telephone calls, homework packets, internet-based lessons or other distance-based learning approaches.
- Special education instructional and related services will be provided in accordance with the ARD/IEP regardless of what setting the Parents have chosen.
- Scholars with disabilities will follow the same guidelines and protocols with special consideration given to meet their individual needs. This includes any accommodations to the uniform policy listed in the scholars IEP.
- ARD Meetings
  - Requirements related to the legal timelines for initial and annual ARD meetings still apply. ARD meetings will continue to meet virtually until further notice; however, all required members must be in attendance.
- Related Services
  - Speech and Related Services (Occupational Therapy, etc..) will be provided in all learning settings.
