Failures

Part 2 – Road to College (DCP: Academic Counseling) Leadership Team update

There will be tutoring available for scholars that failed a quiz. At the end of the tutoring session, they will have time to retake the failed quiz. The highest grade is what will appear in the gradebook.
Give in class time for homework.
Ask the scholar to decline until they can raise grade or to go at a later time so that content can be given.
We did test corrections for the multiple choice last week and we will do short answer test corrections this week.
Honestly, I don't know. I have been frustrated by the lack of motivation all year, but it seems to be getting worse. I have recently tried increasing the amount of in-class activities and participation grades, and I am hopeful that this will reverse the trend, but so far my failures reflect a lack of participation/motivation to do work, and are completely up to date.
Show an interest in the students who are falling behind.
Scholars will be given a chance to retake the quiz after school.
being strict on this letting them complete homework in tutoring and giving them time to do retake Show exemplar example of homework.
continue to follow up with Ducklow, scholars, and teachers about updating grades for Sped scholars so we can assess the numbers of scholars with sped services that are failing inspecting what I expect and immediate feedback.
